Commercial Engine Assessment

Digital & AI readiness, applied to how you win, serve and keep customers.

For a subsidiary that sells in Iberia what the group makes elsewhere, or for a technical company whose product is a service, the business is the commercial engine: how the market hears of you, how a lead becomes a customer, how that customer is served and kept, and how the people who do all this are hired and equipped. That is where digital and AI either pay or don't. It is also where most initiatives fail: tools bought and never used, pilots that never scale, processes nobody redesigned, people nobody brought along. The Commercial Engine Assessment is a fixed-scope, four-week diagnostic that gives your leadership team a clear, prioritized answer to three questions: Where do we stand? What is actually worth doing? And in what order?

WHAT WE EXAMINE

Six lenses on one engine, working directly with your management and the people who run it.

- Business context & strategy — market position, the group's priorities for Iberia, what the engine has to deliver.
- Demand & sales — how the market finds you and how a lead becomes a customer: presence, funnel, sales process — including whether AI assistants name you when buyers ask.
- Processes & operations — how marketing, sales, service and communications actually work — and where the friction is.
- Data & systems — CRM, analytics, automation: what talks to what, and what doesn't.
- AI readiness — every AI already in use, bought, embedded or unauthorised; where AI would actually pay, and what must be true first.
- People & adoption — skills, habits and ownership: who will make the change stick.

HOW IT WORKS

Week 1 — Immersion. Kickoff with leadership, structured interviews with key people, access to systems and data. Delivered by Friday: the AI use register — every AI in use, by function, owner and contract, with the AI Act obligation each one triggers, or none. The legal opinion stays with your lawyers; the inventory is yours.

Weeks 2–3 — Analysis. Audit of presence, funnel, processes and toolset; benchmarking against your market, including what AI assistants say about you and your competitors.

Week 4 — Roadmap & decision. Findings consolidated into a prioritized roadmap, presented in person to your leadership team.

Fixed scope. Fixed timeline. Fixed fee. No open-ended engagement — and no junior staff learning on your budget.

WHAT YOU GET

- Maturity map — of where you stand across the six lenses.
- AI use register — yours to keep and maintain.
- Prioritized opportunities — qualified by impact and effort — including what not to do.
- 90-day quick-wins plan — you can start immediately.
- 12-month roadmap — connecting technology, process and people.
- Leadership working session — to turn the roadmap into decisions.

Every recommendation is executable — by your team, by us, or by any partner. You own the roadmap either way.

WHO THIS IS FOR

International B2B companies operating in Portugal and Spain that need a senior partner on the ground — and Iberian industrial and technical SMEs that must modernize but lack an internal digital leadership role. If your growth depends on how you win and serve customers in Iberia, and the answer involves technology, process and people at the same time, this was built for you.
